Progress, therefore, is not an accident, but a necessity It is a part of nature.

Herbert Spencer

As the population of a community increases and its facilities become out-dated and inadequate, the citizens of the community recognize the need for improvement. Thus, in 1926 Greenfield realized the first high school building constructed in 1895 had finally become outmoded—the result was a new building which is still in use. In 1966 Greenfield has again recognized the need for a new high school, and plans for this school are nearing completion.

While the school board, administration, faculty, and architects are considering the building plans, they are placing great emphasis upon better and more modern facilities, planning more and larger classrooms, and providing for a more educational environment.

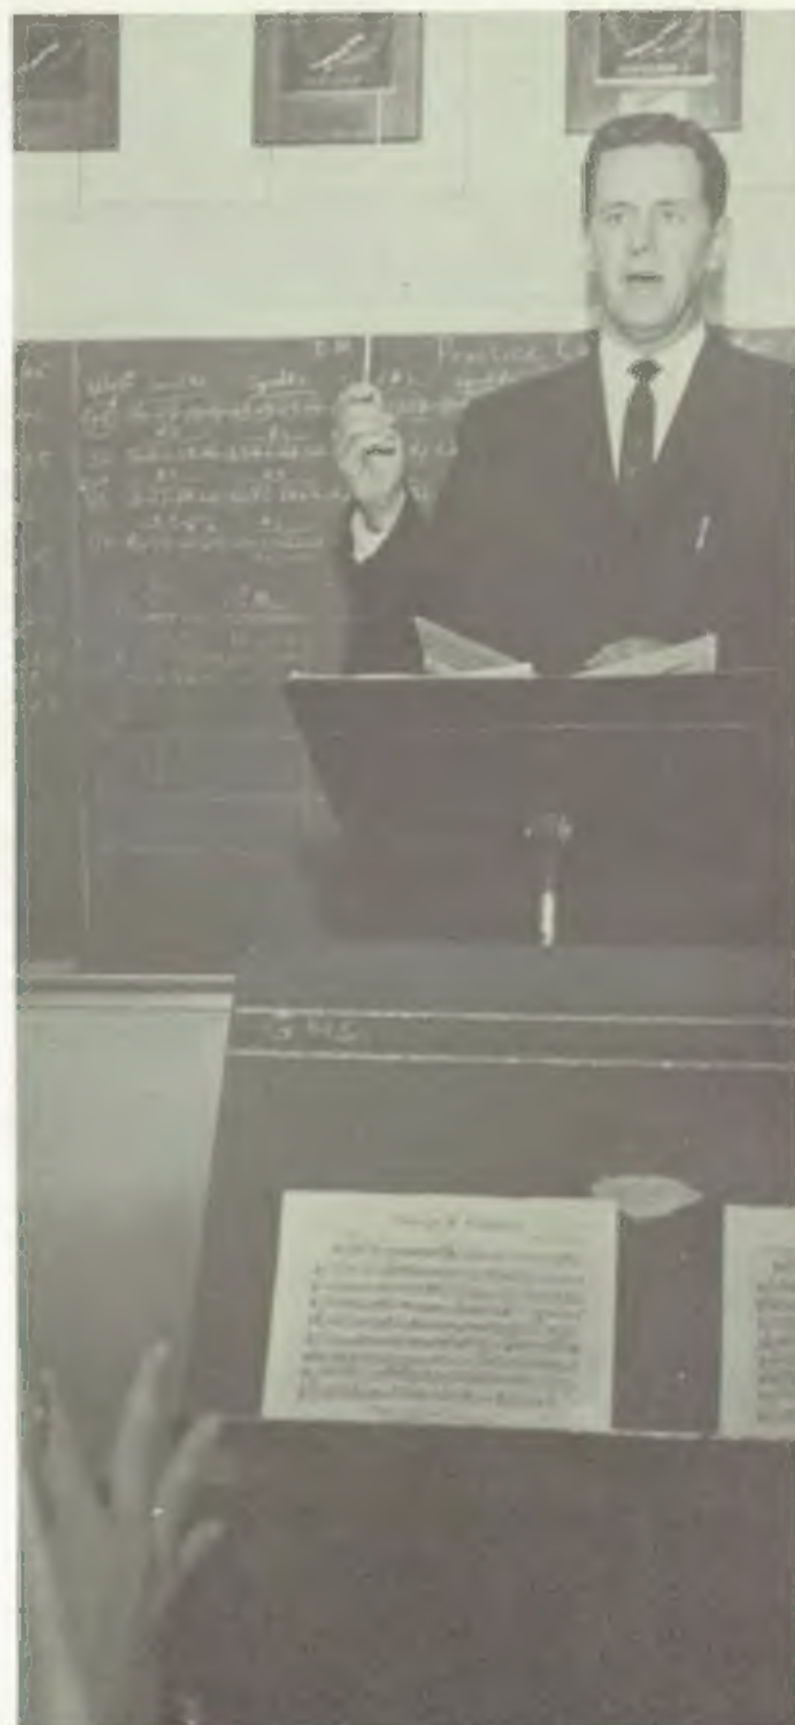

Progress is not an accident. It requires many hours of effort by many people who plan and decide the future of a school. A community must expand its school facilities as its population increases and such expansion is an integral part of progress.

Annual Day Highlights

Student Life

Finally the day arrives. The students and faculty can hardly wait. Mr. Tidrow announces that all students may report to the gymnasium. Students seem to pour from everywhere, scrambling to their seats and anxiously awaiting their first glance at the new annual. The annual staff braces itself behind stacks and stacks of books, beaming with pride as they begin the ordeal of distributing over 400 annuals.

The catchy sayings and memorable autographing is the highlight of the day. Students gather in every "quiet" corner of the gym, all around the student parking area, and under the shade trees of the school's front lawn to sign each others' books.

No one will ever realize the many hours the staff devotes to the publication of the book. Many evenings after school, homeroom periods, and Saturday and Sunday afternoons are sacrificed. Although their work is difficult and time consuming, if the book pleases the students, the staff considers this as their greatest reward.

Annual day at Greenfield High School marks the end of a year filled with happiness, and success. It marks the beginning of many years of "High School Memories."

Faculty

and Administration

The faculty and advisors at Greenfield High School are very talented people, and their lives are kept busy with many inquisitive students. One of the most important tasks they perform is providing each student with personal recognition. Many hours are spent in the "psychology lab." Social adjustment is a major part of every student's life. The faculty is expected to help each student set a goal and advance toward it.

Academic advancement and training for vocational careers is another phase of a teacher's job. They must learn a successful method of conveying their message. As each student grows intellectually, he also grows toward adulthood. Being able to handle adult affairs requires a great deal of guidance. The faculty is devoted to each student's needs and future desires. They hope to develop a mature mind in every student.

MR. ERNEST TIDROW, Principal

Life at Greenfield High School revolves around the offices of the principal and his assistants. The position of principal is held by Mr. Ernest Tidrow. Mr. Tidrow has been in Greenfield since 1960, at which time he assumed his administrative post. During his six years of service, Mr. Tidrow has concentrated his efforts toward official school business, and has contributed to all areas of student and school interests.

The school board, headed by Mr. J. B. Stephens, manages the over-all educational system of Greenfield. The school board along with Mr. Tidrow and others, has been conferring with architects. They have been planning the new high school, which is to be built in the near future.

Administration Focuses Its Attention on

The school board members, Mr. James Fick, Mr. William Jones, Mr. Charles Pason, Mr. John Cole, Mr. J. B. Stephens, Superintendent, and Mrs. Betty Hunter, meet to discuss plans for the new school.

Advancement

Filling the posts of Dean of Women and of Men are Miss Gray and Mr. Don Pfaff. Besides planning the students' schedules, each has many extra duties. Miss Gray sponsors the National Honor Society and is in charge of special testing. Miss Gray also ~~counses~~ counses most college preparatory students in choosing the college best suited for their individual needs.

In addition to being Dean of Men, Mr. Pfaff is the assistant principal, sponsor of student council and athletic director. He spends countless hours solving the students' vocational and personal problems and scheduling the various sports events.

The student body is grateful to the Administration for devoting their time, effort, and energy. Without their tireless efforts many problems would go unsolved.

Physical Education

The English Department works for coordination of the various phases of the language arts program and works toward consistency in the use of general policies among the various English teachers. They place great emphasis upon the desirability of Greenfield High School students improving both their written and oral communication. The program is implemented through teaching the students how to evaluate material which they read.

Meetings are held regularly, and at these times problems of common interest are discussed and ideas exchanged which will help the teachers to find more effective ways of achieving their goals. The department anticipates the time when there will be more classrooms, reading laboratories, better facilities for teaching smaller classes and additions to the teaching staff.

One third of the students at Greenfield High School this year are taking a foreign language. Two years of Latin and Spanish are offered, and, as new additions this year, one year of French and German are offered. Records are used in addition to textbooks in teaching Spanish, French, and German.

The department hopes to increase its curriculum by offering second year French and German next year. Perhaps in future years, three years of these subjects will be offered.

Language laboratories are being considered as a part of the department in the new school. These laboratories will make it possible for students to make a more comprehensive study of the language, and will enable the teachers to increase their teaching capacity

Mrs. Bigelow, the new librarian, is very helpful to the students

Mr. Harpring, the head of the mathematics department, has announced a transition in the teaching material. This year new textbooks, approaching the subject in a more up-to-date manner, have been adopted. In addition to the regular courses—general mathematics, algebra, advanced algebra, geometry, and comprehensive mathematics—a new course, pre-algebra, is being presented. Students interested in furthering their knowledge may take summer courses.

The science department has also advanced greatly in past years. Recognizing its need for progressive courses, the department has introduced more conclusive studies in the four major branches of science offered at Greenfield—physical science, biology, chemistry, and physics. Advanced biology is now

Before graduating from Greenfield High School, a student is required to take one year of United States history and a semester of government and a choice of either economics or sociology. Other social studies offered are civics, family relations, and world history. By tying the past with the modern world, the students are to learn from the past and hence, benefit in the future.

During many meetings throughout the year, the social studies department, headed by Mr. Bishop, has decided how their department will be equipped in the new school. The teachers have worked hard and have spent many hours planning their new department.

The business education department offers many beneficial courses, such as general business, business law, office practice, shorthand, and typing. These courses help prepare the students for future employment in this field and for college.

By serving as office cadets, students are able to apply what they have learned in their business courses. This provides valuable experiences for their future positions.

Under the direction of Mrs. Jackson, a new method of teaching shorthand was established this year. This is the Diamond Jubilee Series. The girls who take shorthand find it difficult but rewarding.

Mechanical drawing, printing, woodcraft, power, and household mechanics are the various courses offered by the industrial arts department. Having mastered their basic skills, the students then proceed to satisfy their individual needs. A general description of these courses might be "drawing with the emotion left out."

The home economics department has been completely revised both in curriculum and facilities this year. The curriculum has been broadened to include home management, child development, meal management, and family living. A more complete study of clothing and foods has also been added. The facilities of the department have been improved with new sets of cooking utensils, dishes, glassware, and electric ranges. The sewing room received new storage cabinets, new sewing machines, and curtains. Home economics and industrial arts offer students practical training that is applicable to their everyday lives.

The fine arts department offers the students of Greenfield High School a background in music and art appreciation. The band, vocal music and art departments have a two-fold purpose. Students are given assistance in developing individual skills and are given the opportunity to present their talents at public gatherings. Each department is a performing group that works toward public appreciation.

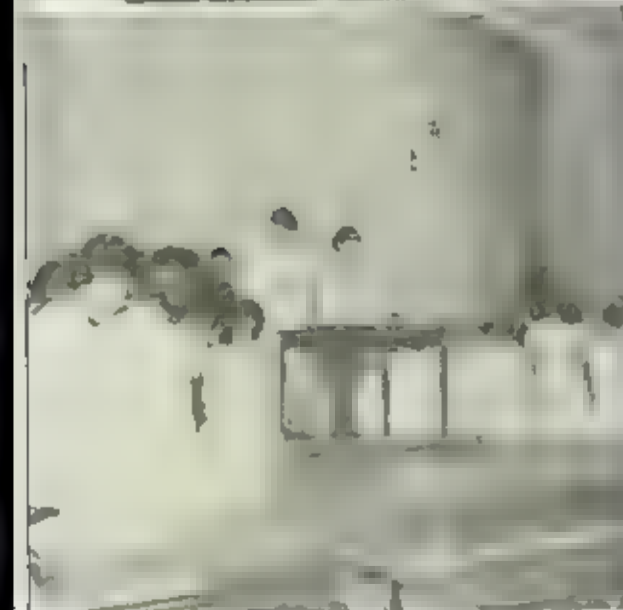

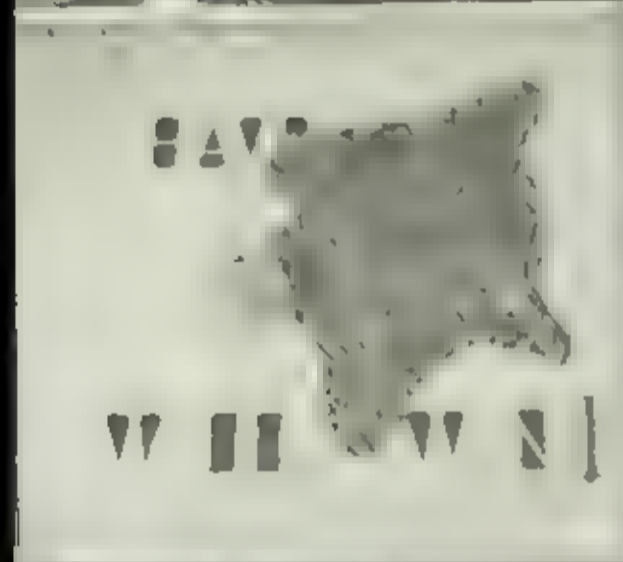

Many times during the school year these departments work together. The art students often help the vocal music and band departments by drawing the posters that advertise dramatic productions and annual concerts. During the Christmas festivities the band and music classes join together in presenting an impressive hour of music.

Mrs. Demegret and Mr. Huntworth discuss poster for the annual Parade of Bands.

Student Life

Student life at Greenfield High School is a blend of tradition and modernity. The school's rich history is reflected in its traditions, such as the annual Homecoming and the Junior-Senior Prom. These events provide students with a sense of community and a chance to celebrate their achievements. The school's commitment to excellence is evident in its academic programs and its focus on extracurricular activities. The student body is diverse and talented, and the school provides a supportive environment for all students to thrive.

Pep sessions generate the spirit, pep and energy that drive the athletes on to victory. Each student clapping his hands, applauding the coaches' pep talks, and shouting for another victory, creates a real sense of unity.

The informal sock-hops following the varsity home games accentuates the students' social life. The live music and records provide a unique atmosphere for "letting off dance steam." Homecoming activities, including the building of class floats, the afternoon parade, and the victorious football game, highlight the fall activities. School plays, musicals and the variety show give individuals a chance to perform their varied talents. The Junior-Senior Prom, the most formal student activity, climaxes the school year.

Student life, a vital force for the success of Greenfield High School, binds students in fellowship, achievement, and tradition. More than this, student life is the essence of Greenfield High's spirit.

Royalty Reigns

Queen Pam Calhoun reigns over the 1966 Camaraderie.

Throughout

Much of the students' social life centers around Homecoming festivities and after-the-game sock-hops. The featured event of the 1965 Homecoming was the crowning of the queen, Miss Lynn Cole. Lynn was crowned at the half-time of the varsity football game, September 18, 1965, by the president of the student council, Ronnie LaVallee. The queen and her court received corsages for the afternoon parade and as the queen was crowned she received a dozen red roses. Queen Lynn Cole, a member of the senior class, is looking forward to her first year at college as a probable physical education major. She reigned over all athletic events throughout the 1965-66 school year.

A week of competitive campaigning and anxious awaiting set the pace for the crowning of the 1966 Camaraderie Queen. During the annual staff's sock-hop, on December 19, 1965, in the midst of the Christmas season, editor, Les Barr, took great pride in crowning Miss Pamela Calhoun queen of the yearbook. Each member of the court received a corsage and the queen, a bouquet of roses. Queen Pam Calhoun was a varsity cheerleader, participated in all-school plays and served the students as an office cadet. She plans to enter Ball State University in the fall as a business major.

All-School Plays Entertain

"Camelot," a musical production based on the legend of King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table, was reproduced in April, 1965, by students showing exceptional ability in the musical and dramatic arts. The amorous adventures of Lancelot and Guinevere, Mordred's wickedness, Morgan LeFey's bewitching wall, Pellinore's wit and good nature, Merlyn's Magic, and King Arthur's pride and devotion to Camelot created a unique story, that captured the hearts of the audience.

"Witness for the Prosecution," a three act play, written by Agatha Christie, was written as a murder mystery, with an intended twisted ending. Greenfield High School drama students gave the production January 8, 1966, under the direction of Mr. Richard Greenland. Although the cast involves a relatively small number of students, many drama club members are involved in costuming, make-up, building of the stage sets, student direction and publicity.

The Juniors Created an Elegant "Evening

The Class of 1966 planned and created an "Evening in Paris" for what they hoped would be a memorable evening for the seniors. The glistening gold-white palace walls were brilliantly accented by the large, golden chandelier, sparkling throughout the ballroom. The oscillating colored lights, shining on the Eiffel Tower in the background, brought forth the gaiety of the French atmosphere.

A fine band enhanced the beauty of the evening, which was highlighted by the crowning of the senior girl, Sandy Walden, to reign as queen. The ball was truly an occasion to remember.

The juniors' parents planned a lively After-Prom Party with Sir Winston and the Commons entertaining.

After many many weeks of planning and building the juniors finally enjoyed their prom.

Clubs

and Organizations

The various clubs and organizations of Greenfield High School provide the students with an opportunity to new interests, further their classroom study, and serve their school and community. Such organizations as the Student Council, and the National Honor Society, aid students in developing leadership

Athletic interests are advanced through the many programs offered to the members of the athletic organizations. During the '65 '66 school year students have joined clubs, attended ball games, entered contests, played in the band, and given parties

The Service Clubs too have been kept active in various projects throughout the school year. The service and dedicated devotion the members of these clubs portray is admirable and commendable

The Academic, Athletic, and Service Organization provide a total integrated program for the development of each and every student. It is hoped that every student takes advantage of the total program

Annual Staff Seek Journalistic Rating Via

The Annual Staff is composed of six senior students each holding a vital position toward the production of the Greenfield High School Camaraderie. These members spend countless hours planning, organizing and developing a combination of a literary and pictorial yearbook. The staff is seeking a journalistic rating. In order to qualify for top honors a yearbook must meet rigid standards. In compliance with these standards the annual staff has initiated these following improvements: complete and total organization of the entire book; unique and original picture arrangements; increased picture quality and quantity; journalistic approach in written material; choice of paper quality; observance of margins; proper use of headlines; application of color; standardized senior index; and more complete coverage of spring activities. Coinciding with these changes came increased sales and advertising, a record sale of 550 annuals, and development of student interest through a patronage sales campaign.

Up-dated Innovations

Debby Landes, Activities Editor, and Candy Endicott, Class Editor, type final body copy and correct word usage errors.

Chuck Geile, Advertising Manager, and Sharon Morris, Business Manager, examine appropriate basketball pictures for athletic page layouts.

For the annual staff work begins early in the summer months soliciting advertisement from the local merchants and businessmen to finance the yearbook. Early in the school year, two days are devoted toward taking the formal club and organization pictures. Annual subscriptions are taken in late November and the first weeks of December. Sales are climaxed by the crowning of the Camaraderie Queen.

The Annual Staff feels that there should be a greater awareness by the student body of the standards of a fine yearbook. The Camaraderie Staff for 1965-66 had set a pace which they hope will be followed by future annual staffs.

The Junior members of the Annual Staff are selected in October of the school year. Their main purpose during the year is to learn the procedures of planning and producing a yearbook. They obtain valuable experience through observing and helping the senior staff. Throughout the year, they form ideas of their own to be incorporated in the Camaraderie the following year. If these ideas and plans are made well in advance, then there is little doubt in the minds of the staff that their yearbook will achieve a top journalistic rating.

Junior annual staff members, Vicki Drake, Mrs. Beau lieu, sponsor, Becky Thomas, Tony Ritter, and Meredith Hull, discuss and plan next years Camaraderie.

In the spring of each year, the senior members of the club are invited to tour Eli Lilly. The Math and Science Club also sponsors a test each year. The highest scoring members of each class are given awards with the member with the highest score receiving a $25 scholarship.

The National Honor Society, under the sponsorship of Miss Evelyn Gray, dedicates itself to the promotion of scholarship, leadership, character, and service in the student body. The Society annually sponsors the orientation program for the incoming freshmen and several members serve as guides at the open house, held during the National Education Week. The requirements for membership are very rigid. Each member must have a 3.2 average on the 4.0 system and pass a rating by the faculty. Approximately 35 sophomores will be inducted in the impressive ceremony held in March. This year the Society is financing the purchase of the pins for the junior members and is also planning a project for the new high school.

Various projects sponsored by the Student Council, such as Homecoming, Twerp Week, and the annual Variety Show, with the aid of their sponsor, Mr. Pfaff, arouse interest and school spirit at Greenfield High School.

This year the Student Councils of Greenfield and Hancock Central combined their efforts and designed an official school crest for the new high school.

Delegates and alternates for the Student Council are elected each year by their respective homeroom classes. Each of the class presidents also serve as members. Through their work, the Student Council is responsible for many improvements throughout the school.

The tour was conducted in order to give members an opportunity to learn about the curriculum methods of teaching, and student housing on campus. F.T.A.'s service project was a donation to the March of Dimes and the club continued a money making project of selling students "school spirit" items.

The Art Club, sponsored by Mrs. Demegret, is an active organization in Greenfield High School. Also being a service organization, the club has made the school and community a more beautiful place in which to work and live.

This year the club's activities have included field trips, seasonal decorations, and guest speakers. A trip to Chicago's Museum of Art highlighted the Art Club's Activities for the 1965-66 school year.

The Library Club, a relatively new organization at GHS, has become an important activity for its members. While the library provides books for the students temporarily, the Library Club, as its major project, sells paperback books to the students and faculty.

Other activities of the club include field trips and picture sales. In June the Library Club sends interested members to Indiana University for a one week learning experience at the High School Workshop for Librarians. They return with new ideas and techniques for improving the school library.

Student Librarians Mark Henz and Sandy Medlin shelve magazines and reference material in the library.

German Club Plans for the Future

The German Club is a newly organized club under the sponsorship of Mrs. Bartnick and leadership of the officers. The main purpose of this club is to promote an interest in German language and culture. One of the activities of the club was Christmas caroling in German and a party during the holidays. The club has no present plans but hopes to expand in the future.

German Club members organize their future meetings.

Slave Karen Kirkpatrick serves at the Roman Banquet.

Latin Club, one of the largest organizations in the school, is composed of one hundred twenty four members. Of these forty eight are seniors, forty one juniors, and thirty five sophomores. All have had two years of Latin.

The main social event of the club is the Roman Banquet, held annually in early spring. Guests, clad in multi-colored togas to represent famous Romans, are served a three course dinner by slaves chosen from the Latin I classes. In typical Roman style guests recline on mats instead of couches and use no silverware. Every member enjoys the food which is prepared by a committee and the entertainment which portrays Roman customs.

Romans Mike Harris, Tony Rutter, Dave Willard, Jamie Wyatt, Debbie Condra, and Linda Briles enjoy the annual Roman Banquet.

Spanish Club probably holds one of the most colorful traditions in the school. The girls are dressed in exaggerated Spanish dress. They wear long colorful skirts and blouses. They are also required to wear knee socks, high heels, and roses in their mouths. The boys don tails and horns and come as bulls. Jeanette Strahl and John Barr were selected by the club for having the most outstanding costumes. The central purpose of the Spanish Club is to promote Spanish culture and tradition among students taking Spanish courses. The club is planning to attend the performance of Andre Segovia, the noted classical guitarist, at Cowles Hall on March 1.

The Jr. Tri-Hi-Y, an organization for freshmen and sophomore girls, was founded by the Young Men's Christian Association.

This year the members have participated in many worthwhile projects and activities. Some of these include supporting a hospital for the mentally retarded, Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets for needy families, sending Christmas boxes to overseas servicemen, and the purchase of a slide for one of the new city parks. The service organization is sponsored by Mrs. Hayes.

Stage Artistry

The Masque and Wig, commonly known as the Drama Club, is responsible for the production of school plays and the supervision of the stage equipment.

The organization gives its members an opportunity to display their dramatic ability and to witness and evaluate various professional productions such as plays, musicals, and operas through frequent field trips.

A point system is used by the club to give its members credit for serving on committees such as costuming, publicity, stage crew, and as student directors.

This school publication serves as a means of communication between the high school and parents of attending students. Necessary funds for publication are obtained by journalism students from subscription solicitation, sale of advertising, sponsoring of sochops; and, of course, the annual Valentine King and Queen.

The largest and most interesting edition of the RILEYAN is the one published in May. It is dedicated to the seniors and contains their "Last Words" and "Last Wills and Testaments." Under the guidance of Mrs. Lee the Rileyan has progressed greatly.

Mrs. Lee and Tere Ferris go over final copy for the RILEYAN.

Marching Band Places Fifteenth in State

The Marching Tigers of Greenfield High School brought pride, honor, and recognition to the school. Some seventy determined and enduring students began the long trudge of hard work the second week of the summer vacation. Their first engagement was the Delaware County Fair Band Contest at Muncie, Indiana. The Tigers presented a precise, flashy, and unique routine, which placed second in strict competition. The proud marchers returned home to begin preparing for the Indiana State Fair Contest. With the assistance of Mr. Loren Imes, junior-high school band director, and under the command of Steve Johnson, drum major, the Marching Tiger Band placed fifteenth in the Indiana State Fair Band Contest, the nation's largest band contest. The band presented various halftime shows for every home football game, including one joint show with the Hancock Central Marching Band. The band entered the annual school sponsored contest at Southport High School and received a second place rating. The Marching Band's final appearance during the 1965-66 season was on April 30, at the Lion's State Convention, in Richard, Indiana. The local Lion's Club sponsored the trip.

Talented Individuals Make Music

At the beginning of the second six weeks the Concert Band was organized. The first several weeks were set aside for developing good quality tones, improving individual technique and adjusting to concert band instruments. The solo and ensemble band contest held at Connersville High School, on January 29, was the first performance for the individuals of the concert band. Twenty-one of the solos and ensembles received a first place rating, while ten received a second place rating. During the first week of March, the five county bands joined together for a day of practice and learning in the Greenfield High School gymnasium. The day was climaxed by an All-County Band Festival Concert, presented to the public, and conducted by the director of the Indiana State University Band. Other important public performances of the Concert Band included various exchange concerts, the annual Parade of Bands, and Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises.

The Pep Band's primary purpose was to supply lively and spirited music during the time-out periods of the football and basketball games. Steve Johnson, the drum major for the marching band, did not let his responsibilities end with the close of the marching season. He also accepted the many responsibilities of directing, organizing, and disciplining the Pep Band during the football season. Steve was greatly respected by all the band members and thus was elected the President of the band for the year 1965-66.

Playing for various local service clubs, school programs, adult dances, and high school proms are the main performances for the Dance Band. The band, entered in class A, received a first division rating at the regional contest held at Connersville High School and were then eligible to enter the state contest at Butler University.

Athletics

Spirit and determination, the two inseparables for a victorious team, have proven most efficient in determining the success of Greenfield High School's athletes. The athletic department, headed by Mr. Don Pfaff, has kept pace with a growing student body with an ever improving curriculum. The boys now have an opportunity to participate in their choice of eight different sports—football, cross country, basketball, wrestling, baseball, track, golf, and tennis. On the average, approximately 160 different boys participate in the athletic program.

The old adage, "practice makes perfect," fits the Tigers well. Many, many hours, night and day, are spent conditioning the boys' minds and bodies for a victory.

The Greenfield Football Tigers finished the 1965 season with nine wins and one loss. This was, without a doubt, one of the best all around teams in the history of Greenfield. The team gained a total of 3602 yards, scored 299 points and allowed the opponents only 51 points. Six teams were held scoreless by the Tigers this year.

Whenever a football team compiles a 9-1 record it is very difficult to single out any individual for recognition because such a record shows tremendous team effort. That is exactly what Greenfield had all year long—team effort. The seniors were leaders on and off the field which is exactly as it should be. The juniors and sophomores were always hustling to try to steal a starting position from anyone who was caught loafing. This kind of attitude keeps the first team working to improve so they will still be on the first team come Friday night.

The Tigers held State recognition most of the season and finished with five players on the all-conference team. They are Phil Gray, defensive linebacker; Scotty Hutton, defensive tackle; Gary Slunaker, defensive half back; Mike Ebert, offensive fullback; Rick Gray, offensive end. Returning this year was Jim Davis, a member of the 1964 all-conference football team.

Varsity Sees Best Season in Fifteen Years

True "Hoosier Hysteria" broke loose everytime the Tigers poured from their dressing room onto the playing floor. The 1965-66 basketball team set a win-loss record that surpassed any Greenfield High School record in the past fifteen years—the reasons: an earnest effort for teamwork, mastery of basic fundamental skills, devoted fans, well-educated coaches, and spirit and desire to win.

The Tigers, both team members and fans salute Mr. Mel Garland, varsity basketball coach, and Mr. Dave Welcome, assistant coach. Mr. Garland, in his second year of actual coaching experience, came to Greenfield High School as a graduate of Purdue University. Mr. Garland was honored as the highest scoring guard in Purdue's history. Mr. Welcome, a graduate of Ball State University, led the Ball State Cardinal football team to its first winning season in six years.

When the chips were down "Lady Luck" found the way and helped pull the Tigers out. During the Beech Grove game the team skinned past for a three-point marginal win. The Carmel game, another C.D.C. game, ran into an overtime to see the Tigers out on top by another three-point margin. Probably the biggest thriller of the season saw the Tigers victorious over Noblesville by a score of 51-50. Real teamwork pulled this game through, for as the last second ticked away Tutrow received a perfect pass from Hunt and scored the winning two points that put the Tigers ahead.

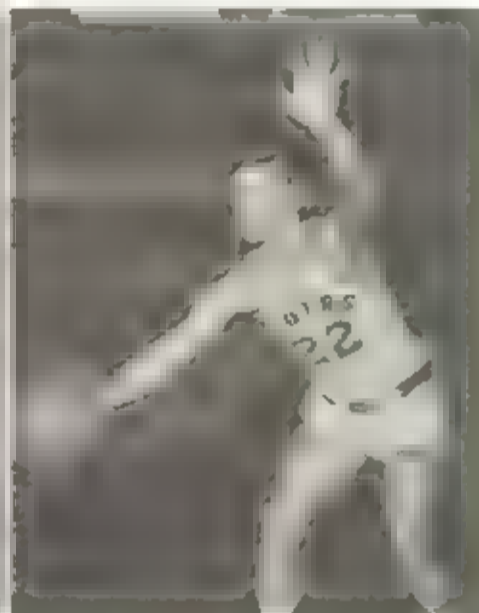

Greenfield Tigers, Gerald Tutrow, Jeff Baker and Steve Bennett, battle for rebound

Steve Bennett, ready at any moment to fight for the team, showed much improvement during the season.

Gerald Tutrow, Greenfield's leading scorer, won the hearts of all the fans.

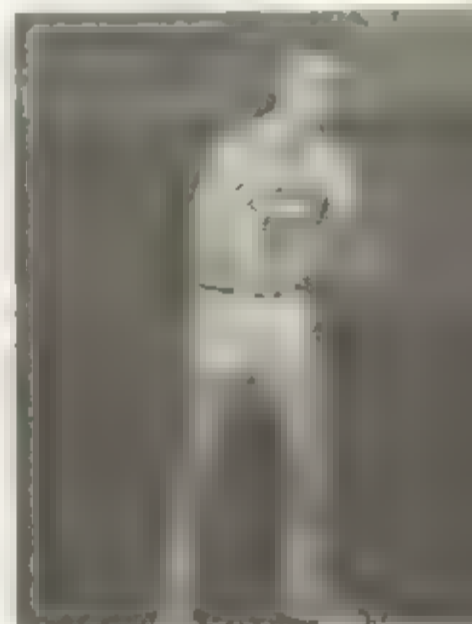

Charlie Hunt seizes rebound from St. Mary's Gails.

Cubs Are Capital District Conference Reserve Champs

Greenfield High School students can be proud of their reserve basketball team, coached by Mr. Welcome, this year. Not only did the team win the capital district conference reserve tourney for the first time in the school's history, but they also compiled the best record for season victories. Many hours of hard work on fundamental plays, skilful handling of the ball, team effort, and perseverance is what made this year's team a successful one. One particular game was an outstanding example of the team's perseverance. At the end of the first half, Greenfield was behind 25 to 3, but during the second half gained the lead and won the game 38 to 31.

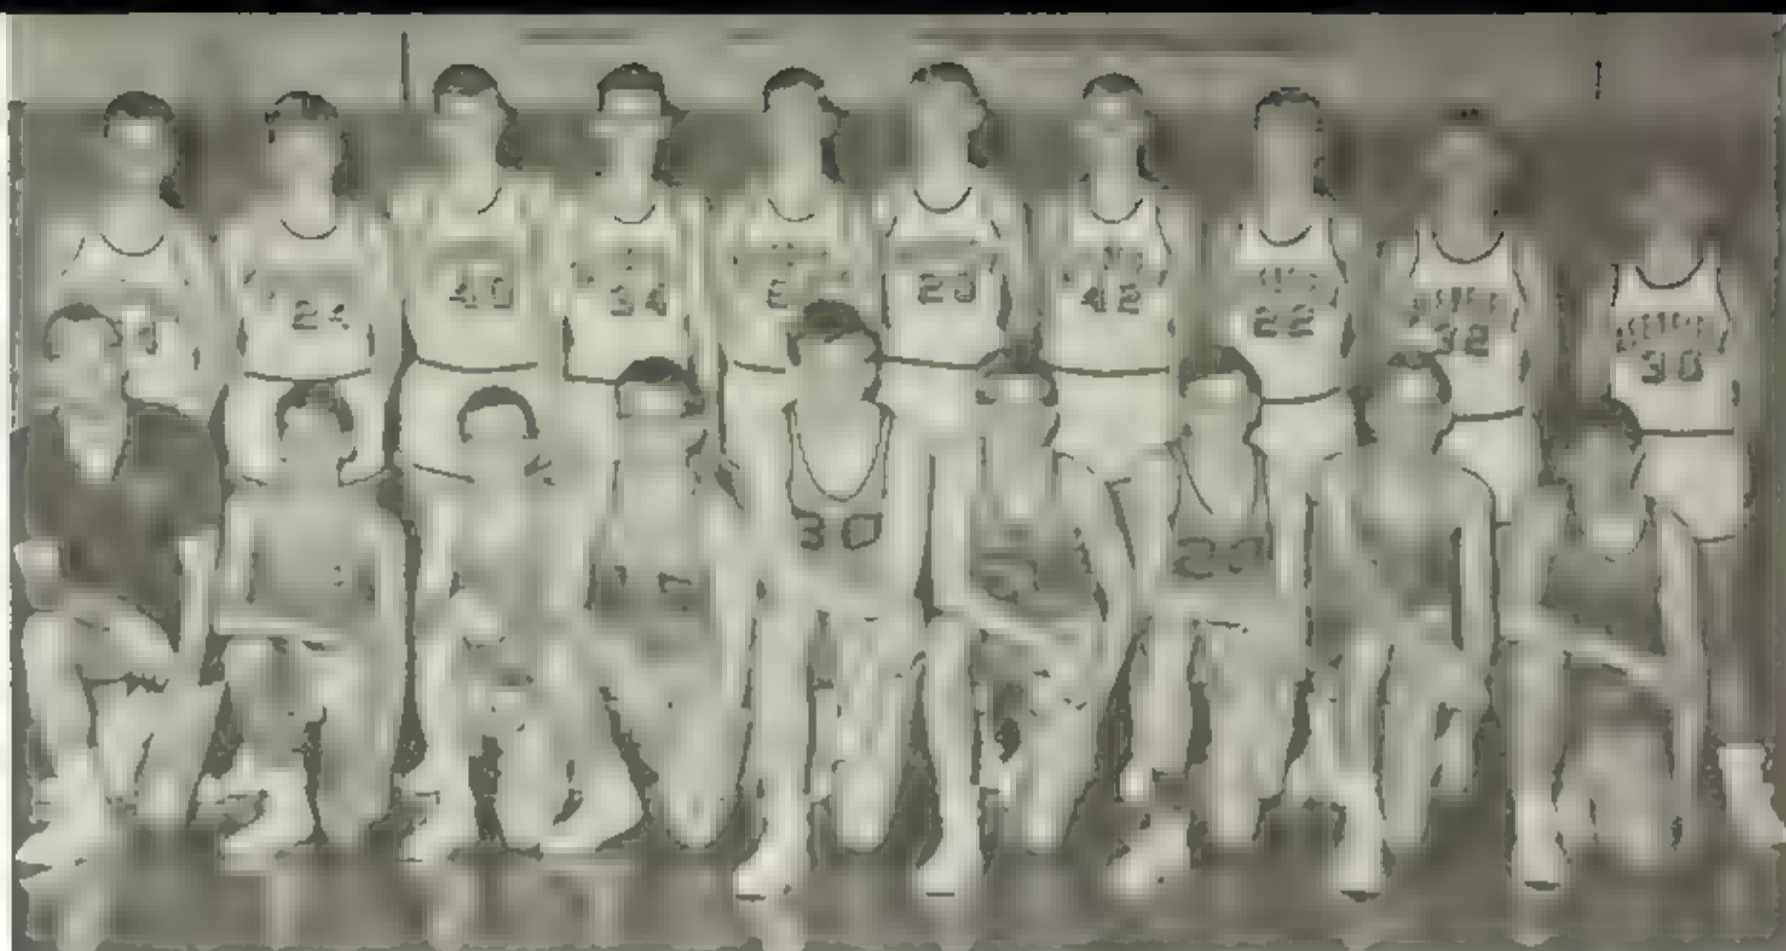

The invaluable experience obtained by these reserve players, and their talent evidenced by their fine season, is assurance of a continuing victorious varsity team in the years to come.

Frosh Team Concentrates on Individual and Team Efforts

The 1965-66 freshmen class had nineteen boys representing it in basketball during their season. They completed a thirteen game schedule and a tournament with a record of ten wins and five losses including the trophy for their tournament victory.

Included in the thirteen games were eleven games for the B-group, in which they compiled a record of six wins and five losses.

The frosh team, coached by Mr. Gorrell, concentrated mainly on individual and team offense and defense maneuvers. Their strength was indicated by their speed, shooting ability, and overall balance.

Successful Season

The Greenfield wrestlers, plagued by inexperience in most weight classes, finished the season with three wins and eight losses. Captain Mike Ebert led the grapplers with a glittering record of eighteen wins and no losses. Ron Shively, the outstanding heavyweight, closed his career with seventeen wins and one loss.

The Ebert brothers, Mike and Dave, brought glory to Greenfield High School by capturing sectional championships at New Castle and led the team to a third place finish.

Mark Harrison, John Howell and Herb Johnson enjoyed outstanding success throughout the season, finishing second and third in the sectional.

With eight boys back for next year's team, the Tigers should come up with another winning season.

The Tiger's track team set the pace for a winning 1965 season by beginning to develop their basic techniques many weeks before actual practice sessions began. Track actually consists of several individual events. The athletes, coached by Mr. Clayton Myers, participate in various relays, shot-put, pole-vault, hurdles, broad jump, high jump, and individual races.

The 1965 track team set many new records, both for themselves, the school, and the region. During various track meets, individual records were set in the shot-put, pole-vault, two-mile relay, outside distance relay, and the indoor mile relay. The track team entered the North Central Relays in the class B division and set the relay's record for the two-mile relay. The team came out on top as far as total points accumulated, and won the Capital District Conference. To improve the conference records, the Tigers set a new record in the shot-put, half-mile relay, and the quarter mile. In ending an excellent track season, the team placed fifth in the sectional and for the fourth consecutive year Mr. Myers was able to take a Greenfield High School Tiger to the state regional track meet.

Winning Track and Cross Country Teams

Skip Amick warms up before cross-country meet.

The Cross-Country team, coached by Mr. Garland, faced a season of strict competition last year. Though few in number, this team displayed great talent and a tremendous amount of team effort. They accomplished a record of eight wins and only two losses. The first seven runners included one senior, five juniors, and one freshman. Tom New, the freshman runner, set a new course record of 10:17 and also placed fifth in the sectionals.

Next year should be an equally successful season with all the boys returning except Jim Wilson, the only senior on this year's team.

BASEBALL: ROW I: Gerald Tutrow, Phil Gray, Gary Slunaker, Dave W. ROW II: Jeff Baker, Tony Ratter, Larry Hutton, Ronnie Smiddy

Together with the football and basketball teams last year, the baseball team was responsible for the all school trophy being awarded to Greenfield High. Again this year, the award depends on a winning baseball season. This year's team is comprised mainly of underclassmen. Though they lack experience, these underclassmen, together with the returning lettermen look forward to a promising season.

Another spring sport in which students participate is tennis. Intense competition is witnessed during both the singles and doubles matches between the surrounding school teams. Although the upperclassmen have provided the vital winning force of the team, underclassmen show great promise in their matches. The team is coached by Mr. Welcome.

This year's golf team is composed of returning lettermen Dennis Prange, Dave Hill, Meredith Hull, and Rick Gregory. These boys are backed by a promising group of freshmen: Bob Sperry, John Barr, Bob Prange, and senior Chuck Goss. The team, coached by Mr. Miller, is expecting another winning season.

In pre-season warm-up Gary Slunaker tees off.

Seniors

It can never be said that the class of 1966 has not been an active and progressive one. In the past four years the class of 1966 has endeavored to improve itself and, in doing so, help improve Greenfield High School. The fall of 1962 saw many eager and inquisitive freshmen entering into clubs and athletics. Anxious to prove themselves, the incoming freshmen boosted club memberships and the size of athletic teams. The 1962-63 school year saw freshmen such as Mike Ebert securing a position on the varsity wrestling squad and Larry Hutton excelling on the pitcher's mound. The freshmen Homecoming float entry did not place, but the class was well-represented by Miss Becky Arthur in the Queen's Court.

The sophomore year saw a class with a firmer foundation in the high school tradition. The Homecoming float entry placed first among the classes, and Miss Chris Williams was elected to the Queen's Court. The highlight of the 1963-64 year was the induction of thirty-five sophomores into the National Honor Society.

The junior year was especially eventful for the class. The year opened with the arrival of the class rings. Anticipating the prom and the scholarship fund, the class made a record high profit selling concessions at athletic events. The leading roles in "The Male Animal" and "Camelot" were filled by members of the 1966 class during their junior year. "An Evening in Paris" set the mood for the elegant junior-senior prom.

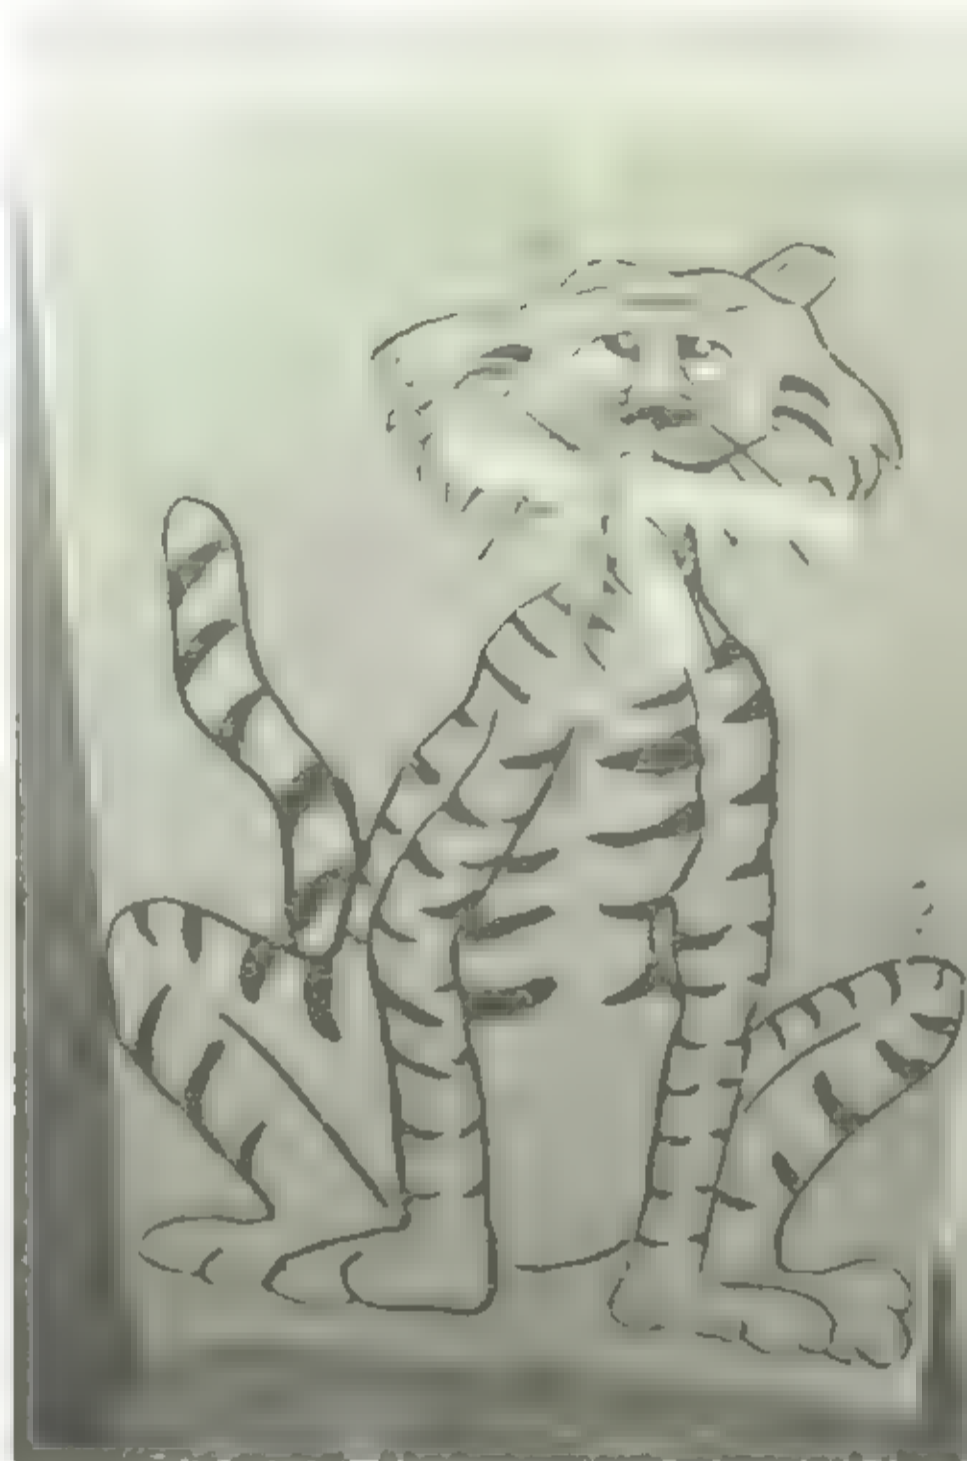

A victorious football team, a winning float entitled "The More They 'Mena the Lisa' They Score," a beautiful queen, and an enthusiastic class of seniors began their last year at Greenfield High School. Applying to colleges and visiting various campuses made the seniors' weekends quite busy. The members of the class of 1966 believe that their four years at Greenfield High School have provided them with an adequate background in general knowledge and manual skills.

Underclassmen

The juniors and underclassmen, in the classroom, at club meetings, during athletic events, and serving the community are the real core of the school. Although they spend three years conditioning themselves to be the leaders of the school, many individuals possess much class leadership.

The junior class is charged with the responsibility of selling concessions during all the school-sponsored athletic events. Each year this class earnestly campaigns to surpass the total proceeds of the previous junior class. Rivalry among the underclassmen is a vital force. Nearly every school day a bystander in the main hall will notice several junior athletes reviewing plaques and trophies in the trophy case. Whether these junior boys had a part in winning the honors or whether they are only admiring the honors bestowed upon their predecessors, they are thinking of the following year, when underclassmen will admire their achievements. The Rileyan, the school's newspaper, is published by a staff consisting mainly of juniors. Likewise, the staff's money-making project of sponsoring a Valentine King and Queen, who is elected by penny-votes, is largely supported by the juniors. Also, in many clubs the junior members are the likely prospects for incoming officers.

The sophomore class must not only set an example for the freshmen, but also follow the examples set by the junior class. The sophomore class is basically a building unit. Although many clubs only delegate leadership to the upperclassmen, the Latin Club reserves the presidential office to the sophomores. The nominees for this office spend much time writing their Pre-Election speech in hopes that they will win the approval of their schoolmates.

The freshmen year marks the beginning of a four-year high school tradition. It is a year of learning; the incoming freshmen learn, not only about high school life, but also about becoming mature, young adults. Besides boosting spirit for their team, freshmen cheerleaders acquire skills that may one day win them a position on the varsity cheerleading squad. The homeroom period is the most active part of their school day. While many of their peers are attending club meetings, many other freshmen utilize this time for study, the basis for their yearly advancement.

After three years of anxious waiting the junior class finally received their class rings. Showing off and admiring their rings lingered on through the first three weeks of school. Their next major project was electing class officers. Rick Gray, Pam Martin, Jane Wyatt, and Jeff Baker were chosen to lead the class through their many and varied projects. The class chose "An Hour of Victory" as their Homecoming float theme, they placed second in the class contest, and Terry Mahin was elected Junior Homecoming Queen's Court member.

The Juniors were well-represented in the all school play, "Witness to the Prosecution," and again displayed their individual talents in the student council, Variety Show.

The spring dawned, and the major project for the juniors was creating an eloquent Hawaiian theme for their Junior-Senior Prom. The prom was completely financed through the sale of concessions during athletic events. Its success and delight was certainly due to the juniors hard work, and their sponsors, Mrs. Wilson, and Mr. Bishop.

This year's Junior Class Officers are Jeff Baker, Treasurer; Rick Gray, President; Pam Martin, Vice-President; and Jane Wyatt, Secretary.

Junior's "Hour of Victory" takes second place in 1965 Homecoming

Sophomores Tackle Second Year

The sophomore class, having withstood the anxieties and adjustments of their freshmen year, has become a strong unit progressing with Greenfield High School. Their Homecoming float, "Fishin' for a Victory," entered the Homecoming parade and placed third in the class contest. Miss Debbie Gray was elected by the sophomore students, to the Homecoming Queen's Court.

The sophomores have continued their enthusiasm in the cultural activities of the school. They constitute a major portion of the band, drama club, and foreign language courses. Marsha Brooks won the title of "Feature Twirler" for the band, and performed during the half-time of football and basketball games. Another important step in the high school career of the class of 1968 was the induction of members into the National Honor Society. This large number is an indication of the scholastic achievement of this class.

The class elected four young men, Mark Harrison, John Howell, Tom Strickland, and Dave Johnson to lead them in their school activities and help them plan their future projects.

Freshmen Elect Class Officers

The class of 1969 is very active and energetic. They have met their responsibilities with driving enthusiasm and a real school spirit. The class' major contribution was their homecoming float, entitled "See 'em Tigers." During the homecoming festivities, the freshmen also elected Joyce Oldham as their Queen's Court member.

The class carries their enthusiasm into their membership in all school clubs, the athletic program, and other extra-curricular activities. The students elected Tom New, Sudv Mahin, Richard Gray, and Dave Scott to unify them and initiate them as part of Greenfield High School.

Leading the freshmen class are officers Tom New, President; Dave Scott, Vice-President; Sue Mahin, Secretary, and Rich Gray, Treasurer.

The high school graduate of 1966

Lilly

... progress Tomorrow
... day's dreams become a reality, for the achievements of the future are
... be a part of creating the
... to contribute little
... Which will it be for you?
Where does the answer lie?

...

*Not in the shouts and plaudits of the throng
But in ourselves, are triumph and defeat*

He's right. The answer is within.
The 1966 graduate needs three inner resources: Purpose—for direction and a plan. Education—for competence and skills. Love of work—for energy and drive.

The arts, the professions, and industry are looking for young people who can offer new ideas and new energies. Will you be ready when opportunity comes? It's up to you!
